Most of you recognise the name. To the lay person, Jeff Carrier may be more famous for the radio character he portrayed, Black Caesar. It's a character with a striking appearance which he used as the star of a series of cartoons which debuted in the late 1960s. No doubt the television audience were left in no doubt as to who was behind the appearance, and no doubt that identity was reinforced by the character's early adventures as a hitman and mercenary, involved in assorted murders and caper. For some reason, "Winnie", as he was known, has retained a following.
